The Parable of the Democratic Raft and the Battleship

'The Gay Nineties' to Be Presented by Paisley Yesterday's headline news on PTA Founders' Day Program at 3 p. m. Thursday Soviet Russia changed leaders without warning and without any In France and Great Britain and the United States, not to mention are a thousand public arguments and a million rumors before the nation changes its Chief of State. That is because the people themselves have signaled a change. In France and Great Britain the action is an indirect one. presentatives are elected to the British Parliament or the French Assembly to speak the people's mind, and any time the Chief o State fails to command a majority he is dropped and some one else takes over. On occasion the representative body is dissolved and a national election called and then the people are voting lirectly, in both Britain and Gere in the United States we vote irectly for President, as well as

Representatives and Senators, and or a definite term in office. Whether the American or Continental variety it is still pure democracy in action. The world has confidence in these democratic governments because the world knows for a certainty that they speak for their people. But Russia is still ruled by whoover happens to be fastest with a gun or most skillful in organizing handful of committeemen in the Kremlin. The world recognizes this truth - and there lies Russia's vulnerability. For it was Viscount Bryce, the great English historian, who wrote that a democracy flounders about like a raft, its people wet and confused and alarmed most of the time, yet the raft is virtually unsinkable; while on the other hand a dictatorship is like a great battleship, carrying, its people then it goes down suddenly some hight, and all aboard are lost. Viscount Bryce made observation after returning home to England from a tour of It is a comforting thought these perilous days - because

'The Gay Nineties' to Be Presented by Paisley Yesterday's headline news on PTA Founders' Day Program at 3 p. m. Thursday Soviet Russia changed leaders without warning and without any In France and Great Britain and the United States, not to mention are a thousand public arguments and a million rumors before the nation changes its Chief of State. That is because the people themselves have signaled a change. In France and Great Britain the action is an indirect one. presentatives are elected to the British Parliament or the French Assembly to speak the people's mind, and any time the Chief o State fails to command a majority he is dropped and some one else takes over. On occasion the representative body is dissolved and a national election called and then the people are voting lirectly, in both Britain and Gere in the United States we vote irectly for President, as well as

Representatives and Senators, and or a definite term in office. Whether the American or Continental variety it is still pure democracy in action. The world has confidence in these democratic governments because the world knows for a certainty that they speak for their people. But Russia is still ruled by whoover happens to be fastest with a gun or most skillful in organizing handful of committeemen in the Kremlin. The world recognizes this truth - and there lies Russia's vulnerability. For it was Viscount Bryce, the great English historian, who wrote that a democracy flounders about like a raft, its people wet and confused and alarmed most of the time, yet the raft is virtually unsinkable; while on the other hand a dictatorship is like a great battleship, carrying, its people then it goes down suddenly some hight, and all aboard are lost. Viscount Bryce made observation after returning home to England from a tour of It is a comforting thought these perilous days - because

'The Gay Nineties' to Be Presented by Paisley Yesterday's headline news on PTA Founders' Day Program at 3 p. m. Thursday Soviet Russia changed leaders without warning and without any In France and Great Britain and the United States, not to mention are a thousand public arguments and a million rumors before the nation changes its Chief of State. That is because the people themselves have signaled a change. In France and Great Britain the action is an indirect one. presentatives are elected to the British Parliament or the French Assembly to speak the people's mind, and any time the Chief o State fails to command a majority he is dropped and some one else takes over. On occasion the representative body is dissolved and a national election called and then the people are voting lirectly, in both Britain and Gere in the United States we vote irectly for President, as well as

Representatives and Senators, and or a definite term in office. Whether the American or Continental variety it is still pure democracy in action. The world has confidence in these democratic governments because the world knows for a certainty that they speak for their people. But Russia is still ruled by whoover happens to be fastest with a gun or most skillful in organizing handful of committeemen in the Kremlin. The world recognizes this truth - and there lies Russia's vulnerability. For it was Viscount Bryce, the show the 1954 assessment to be $9,897,120 — but you can make that just $3,958,848 in old-time dollars. This is less than half what property was assessed at in 100-c dollars 26 years ago. The sales tax wasn't "temporary" — out the Arkansas Gazette is perfectly willing to make tax-exemption of property permanent. I aim to have a popular vote on any increase in the state sales tax which the legislature may levy, and I funds to keep open the public schools. In order to get the 2% sales tax through the legislature it was necessary to compromise. The schools got 70% of the revenue, and the welfare agencies 30%. And all along there was the solemn understanding that in return for this emergency aid by the state to the public schools there would be a reform of the county assessing system and property would eventually be compelled to bear its fair share of the cost of government.

great English historian, who wrote that a democracy flounders about like a raft, its people wet and confused and alarmed most of the time, yet the raft is virtually unsinkable; while on the other hand a dictatorship is like a great battleship, carrying, its people then it goes down suddenly some hight, and all aboard are lost. Viscount Bryce made observation after returning home to England from a tour of It is a comforting thought these perilous days - because
